STAY PRIVATE WHILE SURFING THE WEB.

We are a bunch of ordinary people who are discontent with the global state of mass surveillance and seeing how it negatively impacts our lives. Instead of waiting for the world to change, we took action. We said no to venture capital and funded our research and development through personal savings and grants. All while still fully owning the company and being open about it. The Safing Privacy Network prevents all middlemen from logging and exploiting private activities. Its open source software does this by intercepting all outgoing network traffic: instead of taking the normal route, the connection first gets encrypted and then re-routed through our multi-hop network. This process decouples the person from the situation, resulting in true privacy.
